THE LATE MINISTRY.

Something of the nature of a sensation was created in the community on Saturday by a remarkable letter which appeared in the Advertiser of that date, from the pen of Mr. W. L. Green, the late Minister of Foreign Affairs, containing a sketch of the history of the late Ministry from the time of the commencement of the session of the Assembly until their resignation. The letter is candid and manly in tone, and while it will add to the appreciation in which the author is held by the general public, it must prove a valuable and timely help to the new Cabinet. Coming from an eminently conservative thinker, one who is intimately connected with the material interests of the country, the views expressed will have much weight. The narrative, besides, is interesting reading to those unacquainted with the workings of the inner circles of Hawaiian politics.

On the much mooted question of an immigration of East Indian coolies, Mr. Green is explicit and emphatical against the scheme. He says that the present Premier "has altogether too much intelligence not to perceive when he occupies the position of Minister of Foreign Affairs, as some of his predecessors have found before him, that the introduction of British East Indian Coolies into this Kingdom upon the only terms on which they ever could be introduced, that is under the supervision of a British protector, is utterly impossible, for he must be blind to the signs of the times who fails to note first, the bold and decided policy of the United States as foreshadowed by Mr. Blaine's late ultimatum to the European powers; second—the wonderfully rapid increase of the already overshadowing power of the United States to maintain such a policy when she decides upon it; and to note both in connection with the varied close relations which this Group of Islands always have had and always must have, with the Great Republic. It is hardly necessary to call attention to the fact that the coolie system is threatened everywhere by the progress of ideas, and would be altogether out of place under a Constitutional Government, or indeed anywhere but in a sugar growing Crown Colony of the "severest type," a condition which God forbid that this country should ever arrive at. Indeed every true friend of Hawaii must perceive that the introduction of the East Indian Coolie system into this Kingdom would, even if it were possible, be an outrage on the whole Hawaiian people, and be injurious to them politically, socially and morally."

MR. EDITOR:—If I knew the address of your correspondent, "Barley-Bree," I would send him, through the Post-office, a copy of a little pamphlet lately issued from Thrum's press, entitled Moderation, Shall We Drink Wine and Beer?

But not knowing who it is, and fearing I shall not have the pleasure of furnishing him an entire copy, will you have the kindness to reprint from the 2nd and 3rd pages the following:

"Listen to Baron von Liebig, one of the ablest chemists the world ever produced. He says: 'Fermentation is nothing else than the putrefaction of a substance containing no nitrogen.' There is no dispute on this point among those who know anything about it. I merely mention it that you may understand what you are drinking when you pour down fermented, that is rotted, liquor! You would be angry if your butcher sold you putrid meat, or your grocer brought you rancid butter, or decaying potatoes. But why? You might as rationally eat decaying food as drink decaying fluids."

"Well, after all these four processes have been gone through with, and you hold your glass of beer up to the light, what do you see? In a pint of pure beer you have a little more than 14 ounces of water, a very little extract of barley, and nearly one ounce of alcohol! It is that ounce of alcohol which gives that pint of beer its fascination—it is for that and that alone that you drink it! Extract that, and you would never taste the insipid, nasty stuff!"

"But let's be a little more explicit about the amount of alcohol in beer! Pure whiskey contains 50 per cent of alcohol. Beer varies greatly from four to ten per cent. When you drink a large 'schooner' of beer, and a small glass of whiskey, you get almost as much alcohol in the schooner as you do in the small glass!"

"But is that all, alcohol and the juice of rotten barley, that is contained in that glass? By no means. The Brewers' Guide gives over 70 different articles used in 'doctoring' beer. Let me name only a few: Cocculus indicus, the rankest poison known, oil of vitriol, pepper, aquafortis, poppy seeds, logwood, wormwood, tobacco, copperas, sugar of lead, sulphuric acid, prussic acid and black ants! Do you call such a compound of poisons, drugs, dead insects and dyestuffs 'wholesome'? Such compounds of poison and filth might well have come from the caldron of Macbeth's witches."

"Does not any man in his senses know that when he talks about substituting 'pure wine and beer, for strong liquors, and thus do away with drunkenness, that he is advocating an impossibility? It is impossible to get 'pure wines and beer.'"

The fear of trespassing too much on your valuable space prevents my making further extracts in confirmation of the truths asserted by the "Medical Record;" but I earnestly wish your correspondent, "Barley-Bree," would get the above mentioned pamphlet on "Moderation," and carefully peruse it; and as he is a "strong advocate of Temperance," I feel quite sure he would discover where in-temperance begins.

TO-MORROW, May 30, is "Decoration Day" in the United States, when by common consent in the North and South, the East and West, the relatives and friends of those who fell on both sides in the war of Secession visit the graves, and decorate them with flowers and evergreens. The custom is touching and appropriate, but the time will come ere long when it will be abandoned, as tending to keep alive bitter memories.

The British bark Mary Mildred arrived off the port yesterday morning, 15 days from Tahiti, en route to Burrards Inlet. The captain touched here to leave some letters. He reports that the brigantine Ninita had arrived from Kawaihae, having lost 35 head of cattle on the passage down. She sailed again on the 1st of April, after having remained in port about a month, during which time she was overhauled and repaired. The captain did not know where she had gone to.

The schooner Claus Spreckels, Capt. Cousins, arrived at Kahului on the 23rd inst. from Aptos, with a cargo of lumber and RR Ties, for the H. C. Co.

SOMEbody in our hearing yesterday observed, depreciatingly, "So, Miss Ward is going to give a scene from Romeo and Juliet, eh? That's old." Old it may be, friends, but it still draws. For instance—this play was recently announced at the Lyceum, London. As a proof of the interest taken in the performance, it is stated that a number of persons sat on camp stools at the theatre door, as early as ten minutes before nine in the morning and patiently awaited the opening of the door. To sit up all night in order to be in time for breakfast, is nothing to this. For nearly twelve hours these lovers of the legitimate drama remained on their portable benches, and, sustained by the unsubstantial stimulus of anticipation, bore with meek resolve the nipping blasts of March.

The Band will give a moonlight concert this evening at the Hawaiian Hotel.
